

Po Leung Kuk Tang Yuk Tien College

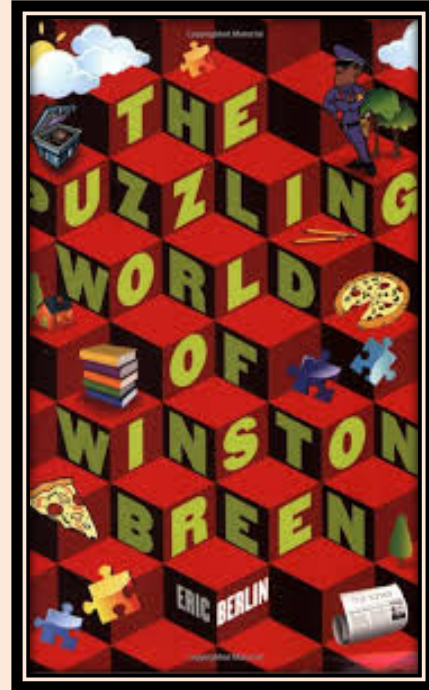

2016-2017

Student Book Recommendation - 3C Anson Tsui Cheuk Yin

Title: The Puzzling World of Winston Breen

Author: Eric Berlin

Publisher: Penguin Group

What is the first thing that you do when you receive your newspaper in the morning? Read the headline? Look at the comic strips? If you choose to finish the word search or the Sudoku in the young post, then you may be highly interested in this book. Like you, Winston Breen is really into solving puzzles. In fact, he loves them so much that he becomes a 'puzzle-holic', he keeps finding puzzles everywhere, and every word or picture can also be converted into a new brain teaser for him. But one day, he came across some strange puzzle pieces in an antique box which actually lead to a treasure of a wealthy man. Not long after that, he is off for this treasure hunt with a group of interested people, each with their own secret. However, it soon becomes clear that someone in the group doesn't want to share the loot. It is up to Winston to catch the scum who used dirty tricks in trying to acquire the treasure.

This book is highly recommended to all students and puzzle-lovers as there are numerous brain teasers to help you kill time. Readers will find it quite challenging and fun as they are inside Winston's world of puzzles. Even if you don't have a clear mind, you can still enjoy this hilarious and witty adventure story. I hope this book can appeal to you, or maybe inspire you in finding your pleasure in your surroundings, even in hard times.